Retailers everywhere are striving to get closer to their customers. Your business needs to understand which products sell the best and for what price, how much inventory to send to your stores and channels, which items should get the most valuable space, when you should mark inventory down and how to plan effective promotions. Most importantly, you need to react to market changes with lightening-fast speed and accuracy – all without overtaxing your valuable resources.

Our demand-driven solutions designed just for retail make it simple to plan better assortments, allocate products to the optimal stores, plan pricing and markdown strategies, maximize your space-selling effectiveness and replenish inventory with accuracy. The result? The ultimate wish for any retailer – increased sales, fewer stock-outs, reduced markdowns and inventory costs and happier customers.
